Day Meets 2021

The programme of Day Meets for 2021 is in total disarray due to the Coronavirus restrictions and is entirely dependant on these restrictions.

At this time none of the Day Meets can be confirmed, when a Meet is confirmed details will be announced to members on Spond.

Until the Covid 19 restrictions on car sharing are lifted the Meet will commence at the walk start point, this will be confirmed with exact location and time by the walk organiser on Spond.

Possible venues for day walks are;

Lochnagar

OS Map 44 (Ballater & Glen Clova),
Lochnagar summit Grid Ref NO244861

One of Scotland's most famous hills, immortalised in verse by Lord Byron as 'Dark Lochnagar', the mountain's principal feature is the north facing corrie.

The most popular start point for Lochnagar is Spittal of Glenmuick where there is a large pay and display car park (£3 charge), there are toilet facilities at Glenmuick.

It is a fairly easy walk to the summit with a well used path most of the way, en-route a short diversion can be made to bag the Corbett Conacraig. The return to the car park can be made by a variety of routes; down Glas Alt to Glas Alt Sheil and along the north shore of Loch Muick or by completing the Lochnagar Horseshoe via four more Munro summits.

Spittal of Glenshee

OS Map 43 (Braemar & Blair Atholl), Grid Ref. NO109699

The Spittal of Glenshee is situated where four glens meet, a well established travellers rest stop, for centuries there was a hostel or inn at the site, however this burned to the ground in 2014 and has yet to be rebuilt. Whilst there are no Munros accessible in a day walk from the Spittal of Glenshee the Corbett Ben Gulabin (806m) is approximately 2.5 kilometres to the north. The village is on the Catearan Trail and part of this could be incorporated into a circular day walk

Ben Chonzie &/or Auchnafree Hill

OS Map 52(Pitlochry & Crieff),

Grid Ref NN773309 Ben Chonzie), NN808308(Auchnafree Hill)

The easiest way up Ben Chonzie is to start at the head of Glen Lednock at Coishavachan. A landrover track heads up from here to around 800m from there it is an easy plod up the broad south east shoulder to the summit (931m). The day can be extended by heading back down the south east shoulder to Meall an Seide (757m) and Carn Chois (780m).

From here, a return to the col between these two tops finds you at a track leading down to Carroglen. From there continue on to Funtulich and the tarmac road leading back to the start. 19km, 987m, 6-7 hours

The Corbett Auchnafree Hill can be ascended by heading up Glen Almond from Newton as far as Larichfraskhan. From here a track heads up to the summit (789m). An interesting return can be made by descending past the Thief's Cave in Coire Chultran to the bridge at NN844 319 and return to the start. 21km, 707m, 6-7 hours. An alternative start would be to head straight up from Newton and navigate the complicated ground between Meall Tarsuinn and Auchnafree Hill.

Both Hills can be climbed from the car park at Loch Turret (NN822265) reached by driving up the Hydro Road in Glen Turret.

To ascend both is roughly 21km, 1160m, 7-8 hours.

The Pentland Hills

OS Maps 65(Falkirk and Linlithgow) & 66(Edinburgh)

The hills can be accessed from Flotterstone Ranger Centre (NT232630) on the A702 from where a variety of rounds of varying length can be made, the longest, (24 km, 1470m), taking upwards of 8 hours. The area is steeped in history including a Font Stone (NT176592) where the occasional baptism is apparently still performed and some of the tracks are of historical religious significance. An alternative start can be made from Thriepmuir Reservoir Ranger Centre (NT182655) just off the A70 near Balerno. A circuit from here can include Hare Hill, Scald law and Carnethy Hill. 20km, 1226m, 6-7 hours.

Glen Gairn

(This walk assumes that car sharing is once again allowed)

OS Maps 36(Grantown & Aviemore) & 37(Strathdon & Alford)

Not so much a through walk as a circuit with a bit of a car shuttle at the start and finish. Cars should be left at NO256966, the start of the walk and NO235939 where the walk will end. 24 km, 810 m

The walk starts just north of Bush (NO257966) and proceeds up a track north through a plantation before breaking out onto the open moorland, and past Blairglass before descending slightly into Glen Gairn. Here the track heading west is used to reach Daldownie before crossing the river by the “Sydney Harbour Bridge”. It’s worth a stop at Corndavon Lodge to peer into the window and admire the wall painting here. This was used by the Queen Mother as a hunting bothy. There also used to be an open bothy next door in the old farm buildings, but due to misuse it has been closed by Invercauld Estate. Continue west until the bridge over the Gairn at NJ212019.

Cross this and head up to the junction at NJ203990 where a decision must be made, to go for Culardoch or not and which is included in the initial calculation. If my memory serves me correctly, this is not a great section of track. Omitting Culardoch would save about 200 m of ascent and about 1.5 km. From Culardoch head south down the steep south east shoulder and eventually make for the junction at NJ191972. Here head south east and follow the rough track as far as Auchtavan where there is a small agricultural museum. The old cottage has one of the last remaining “hanging lums” in Scotland but it is usually locked up. The track then continues east and south through pleasant woodland, past Balmore and Balnoe to reach Thistledae. From there is about 2 km of tarmac to reach the start of the day. It might be possible to leave at least one car at Thistledae if this option is preferred at the start.

Glen Prosen

OS Map 44 (Ballater & Glen Clova)

Glenprosen, a glen and a quoad sacra parish in Kirriemuir parish, NW Forfarshire. The glen is that of Prosen Water, rising at an altitude of 2750 feet on the western slope of Mayar, and running 18 miles south-eastward through the northern division of Kirriemuir and along the borders of Cortachy, Kingoldrum, and Kirriemuir proper, till, after a total descent of nearly 2400 feet, it falls into the South Esk at a point 1¼ mile SE of Cortachy Castle.

It is a glen steeped in history. Scott planned his ill-fated polar expedition at the Prosen home of Edward Wilson – a world authority on grouse parasites. At the turn of the century the Prosen estate earned more from shooting grouse than from agriculture. That kept Balnaboth, the Laird's house, well stocked with supplies of game ... and famous guests.

J M Barrie rented the house for three summers in the 1930s from the grandmother of the current owner, Hector MacLean, when the success of Peter Pan ruled out an "ordinary" house in his birthplace of Kirriemuir for summer holidays. Balnaboth was indeed grand enough – Hector's dad remembered meeting the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret there as a boy, and dinner was halted as the young ladies picked strawberries.

Driesh and Mayar can be climbed from here also a walk over to Glen Clova using the Ministers heritage way. Graham Cat Law (671m) is also a possibility.

Weekend Meets 2021

For full conditions of booking weekend meets please see page 14

The Covid-19 pandemic has had catastrophic consequences on Scotland's hostels and bunkhouses, the vast majority have temporarily closed and several will probably never reopen.

This naturally has severely affected our club programme of Weekend Meets for the coming year and at this time only the following three weekend meets can be confirmed.

March	Corran Bunkhouse, Onich
June	Strawberry Cottage, Glen Affric
November	Ochils Club Hut, Crianlarich

Conditions of Booking

Weekend Meets, Burns Supper & May Week 2021

Weekend Meets

These are now organised by several different committee members.

Name and contact details of the Event Organiser and all other booking information on the weekend will be circulated to all club members by email/WhatsApp

In most cases 6 places will initially be booked.

To guarantee your place first contact the Event Organiser then pay via bank transfer to the Club account;

Sort code 80-90-68

Account No. 00830247

and inform Steve McFarland that you have made the payment or:

Make out a cheque payable to SHMC and mail or hand it to;

Steve McFarland, 12 Fetteresso Terrace, Stonehaven, AB39DS

If all 6 places are booked you will be advised by the Event Organiser whether they can book more places, or if not you should contact the venue personally to make your own private booking. The name of the Event Organiser and payment details will be included with the booking information for that weekend. Please note that the 6 places generally go very quickly and the earlier we know if extra places are required the more likely we will be able to secure them.

Should you wish to cancel a booking you must do so as soon as possible to reduce the potential loss to yourself, it may be possible to offer your place to someone else if there is a waiting list. If we are unable to fill your place and have to cancel it any refund will be at the discretion of the venue management.

May Week and the Burns Supper Weekend

A deposit of £20 is required to secure a place.

Please inform Anne Sinclair and pay via bank transfer to Club account;

Sort code 80-09-68

Hill Bagging

Most club members are working on the popular pastime of bagging hill groups, the most common being Munros, Corbetts, Grahams and Donalds. These lists are maintained by the Scottish Mountaineering Club who occasionally demote and promote hills from the various lists.

Munros

These are defined as Scottish peaks of 3000ft (914.4m) and over of "sufficient separation" from their neighbouring peaks.

There are currently 282 Munros.

Corbetts

These are peaks in Scotland with height of 2500ft (762m) with a drop of at least 500ft (152.4m) between each peak and any higher land.

There are currently 222 Corbetts.

Grahams

These are peaks in Scotland which are over 2000ft (609.m) or more, and less than 2500ft (762m) with a drop of at least 150m between each peak and any higher land.

There are 219 Grahams.

Donalds

These are summits in Scotland, south of the Highland Fault Line of at least 2000ft (610m) with a drop of at least 50ft (15.2) between each elevation and any higher elevation, there are currently 89 Donalds, and a further 51 Donald Tops, a complete round should include all 140 hills.

Other Hill Lists

The Munros, listed in 1891 started the classification of UK hill groups, since then many other hill lists have been compiled. These include;

Archies	Deweys	Humps
Binnions	Dillons	Marylins
Birketts	Dodds	Simms
Bridges	Full House	Synges
Carns	Furths	Vandaleur-Lynams
County Tops	Hewitts	Wainwrights

Compleators

This is the term used by the Scottish Mountaineering Club for walkers who have completed one or more for the hill groups.

Currently the SMHC membership includes;

- 19 Munro compleators, including one member who has completed two rounds
- 8 Corbett compleators
- 2 Members who have completed all of the Munros, Corbetts and Grahams

They are made from only the finest materials; the carcass is Russian Birch Plywood with features in various exotic hardwoods such as, Purpleheart, American Black Walnut and Ekki, recycled groyne timbers from a beach in Kent.

They feature the SMHC logo laser cut or set in epoxy resin on the front.

One box only is available to be personalised to the buyer's requirements with a 100mm x 100mm logo of their choice set in epoxy resin.

These are priced at £25 each (£30 for the personalised one) which probably appears exorbitant, however this does not even cover the cost of materials and for each one sold £5 will be donated to club funds.
